This custom geometric swimming pool is the delight of these Paradise Valley, Ariz., homeowners. When the owners desired a waterway that would provide entertaining options, aesthetic appeal and relaxing retreats, they turned to Natural Settings of Phoenix. The result is breathtaking. This masterpiece, situated upon a hill, overlooking the valley below, provides for an absolutely stunning view.

Prior to construction, the designer and homeowners met to discuss the expectations for the pool. The design team listened intently to the owners' wishes, and upon submitting a design that would complement the home's architecture and setting, the team proceeded with construction.

The pool's location posed some difficult challenges, requiring the design team to incorporate precise engineering plans to create and maintain structural support for the pool. The pool wall was built upon the hillside lot and served as a barrier in order to accommodate the pool code regulations. Extra footings were utilized in order to secure the pool and prevent any shifting after construction. This pool now serves as the epitome of a stunning, relaxing waterway.
